

A FAKED HARD-RIGHT UK TERRORISM MICRO-GROUP? [1]

By Anthony Shell August 2024 (note: updated June 2026)

Analysis

In February 2018 the retiring head of UK Counter Terrorism (Assistant Commissioner Sir Mark ROWLEY) warned of a growing domestic “white supremacist” terrorism threat: “I can tell you that over the same period [since the Islamic terrorist attack in Westminster] police have been able to prevent a further four extreme, right wing inspired plots in the UK ... it is important we make these figures public in order to illustrate the growth of right-wing extremism ... For the first time we have a home-grown proscribed white supremacist, neo-Nazi terror group, which seeks to plan attacks and build international networks.”^{1 2 3}

The “neo-Nazi terror group” is (or, rather, was) National Action – a neo-Nazi micro-group created and run within the UK, by a person named Benjamin RAYMOND.

So, what are the origins of this (and similar / associated) groups, within the UK?

In the UK, on the 1st August 2008, Benjamin RAYMOND registered a website for the ‘Integralist Party’.⁴ However, over its subsequent 8-year online history, the ‘Integralist Party’ never appears to have operated as a bona fide political party.⁵ Indeed, its primary purpose only ever appears to have been as a tool used to solicit details of people, resident within the UK, who expressed an interest in neo-fascist ideology.

It was from December 2008 – and during his time as a student at Essex University – that Benjamin RAYMOND ran a blog, under the name ‘Benjamin NOYLES’. Notably, within that blog, RAYMOND included links to Australia and New Zealand political groups (aussienationalist.blogspot.com, newrightausnz.blogspot.com, etc.).⁶

From approximately March 2009 until May 2011 Benjamin RAYMOND was the Deputy Party Leader of the Integralist Party, under Party Leader Robert STEAD. There were six other members of the party

¹ ‘Far-right terror threat “growing” in the UK as four plots foiled’, by Daniel Sandford, home affairs correspondent, BBC News, 26th February 2018.

² ‘The Key Difference Between the Far Right and The Islamists’, Charles Moore, The Spectator, March 2018, source: <https://blogs.spectator.co.uk/2018/03/the-key-difference-between-the-far-right-and-the-islamists/>

³ Those comments were made despite the fact that National Action membership had, in fact, already been further reduced (by police action) to just a very few individuals. My own estimations (based on public data) are of a total membership of never more than about 50 persons for National Action (i.e. for the whole of the UK, throughout its 7-year existence), and never more than 1,200 persons for the IronMarch.org forum (as the total, Worldwide membership of that forum – including from Europe, North America, and Australasia, throughout its 9-year existence).

⁴ Under the name: www.integralistparty.org

⁵ No campaigning or electioneering, no election candidates (for local or general elections), no meetings, no engagement with local newspapers or radio – and nor does it appear to have ever been registered with the UK Electoral Commission.

⁶ Benjamin NOYLES, ‘Britain Awake’, downloaded from: <https://www.blogger.com/profile/13347668786289282408> a Google cached copy on the 4th March 2015

committee. The party website was integralist.org. However, the whole thing fell apart – reportedly as a result of an attempt by RAYMOND to take over both the party’s website, and its membership list.⁷

Immediately following his graduation in International Relations and National Security, from Essex University, RAYMOND opened a number of neo-Fascist websites and blogs – including integralistparty.zzl.org, used for the promotion of the neo-fascist Integralist Party of Great Britain and Northern Ireland (IPBGNI). The IPBGNI website is shown as having been active from the 15th July 2011.

A month later Benjamin RAYMOND used his ‘Benjamin Noyles’ alias to post, on his ‘Britain Awake’ blog, his utmost satisfaction that the “little cunt” – a Scottish undergraduate student – had been convicted and expelled from St. Andrews University for protesting the actions of the Israeli Government against the Palestinian people. In his post RAYMOND included a link to the US-based Jewish Journal – presumably a primary source RAYMOND subscribed to.⁸ It would appear that RAYMOND was so outraged at the student’s opposition to Israel’s (and to the IDF’s, most especially) behaviour, within the Occupied Territories – seeing it as anti-Semitism – that he threw all caution aside and posted his reaction without due caution.⁹ Benjamin RAYMOND had actually let slip – on his own neo-Fascist website – his affinity to, and support, of Israel and its actions in Gaza and The West Bank, against the Palestinian people.

So, the story moves forward some two years.

A particular matter that greatly alarmed the UK State from (at least 2013) was the emergence and the growth of a popular, youth-orientated, ‘European identity’ movement. This movement appears to have had its roots in Génération Identitaire, started in France in 2002. It subsequently gained traction in various forms, for example: European Traditionalism; This Is Europa; European Awakening; Europa Rising; Generation Europa; and most especially Generation Identity (GI). And this movement contained a common, major concern, defined as ‘The Great Replacement’ of the native European people.¹⁰

On the 15th May 2013 an English translation of a ‘manifesto’ by the founder of Génération Identitaire, Markus WILLINGER, titled ‘Generation Identity: A Declaration of War Against the 68-ers’, was published by ARKTOS Press. A week later a Stop White Genocide YouTube channel was created. This was followed the same year by other published articles following much the same ‘European Identity’ theme.^{11 12}

⁷ ‘New Integralist Party site? 24th July 2011, ipka.wordpress.com

⁸ RAYMOND includes a link to: www.jewishjournal.com/education/article/scottish_university_student_guilty_of_anti-israel_racism_20110824/

⁹ ‘Anti Racist student activist guilty of racism’, Benjamin Noyles, 31st August 2011, source: <http://britainawake01.blogspot.com/2011/08/>

¹⁰ The emergence of the Generation Identity (GI) movement, in mainland Europe (and in the UK, circa 2013), was the result of the growing visibility (to the general public) of the intent by the ruling political classes in Europe and (especially) the USA to replace much of the native (white) population of Europe, through the use of ‘managed’ mass migration from (especially) non-native European (non-white) countries.^{10 10 10} This was increasingly being revealed in the pronouncements (declarations of policy intent and of the planned enforcement) through powerful global agencies such as the UN, the EU Commission, the EU Parliament, the OSCE, and the UN-backed Global Forum on Migration and Development (GFMD). The generic description for that process has, indeed, been specifically called “population replacement” by the proponents, and potential enforcers, of that policy. For example, in: ‘The demographic challenge in Europe’, by Karaly Lorant, The EU Parliament, Brussels, April 2005

¹¹ ‘A Europe of Regions and Identity’, Traditional Britain Group, YouTube, 28th October 2013

¹² ‘We Are Generation Identity’, Edition Ideas, 9th November 2013

However, people who genuinely protested the potential loss of their homelands, lives and livelihoods had to be portrayed (by the political elite) as fascists, 'white supremacists', and neo-Nazis. Most noticeably, the overtly fascist, neo-Nazi National Action was 'coincidentally' founded by Benjamin RAYMOND, together with the UK State's PREVENT-mentored Alex DAVIES, in late September 2013 – i.e. a mere 4 months after Generation Identity (Génération Identitaire GI) first emerged within the UK.¹³ The emergence of Generation Identity within the UK, and its subsequent growth in popular support and activism, will have resulted in efforts by the UK State and by State-supported/affiliated groups to “discredit, destabilize and destroy” it – including by covert means, and involving ‘dirty-tricks’ operations from various UK State establishments such as at Fort Monkton, in Portsmouth, Hampshire.

It was in late 2013 that Benjamin RAYMOND formed the ostensibly white-racist / anti-Semitic group, National Action. However, 6 months later, RAYMOND let slip (under his alias ‘Jackbootsharman’) that he had done so, under the remit that it was for the specific purpose of discrediting and destroying Generation Identity – the European nativist movement then rapidly growing within the UK.¹⁴

Of particular note (in that regard) are these comments by the leader of National Action (Benjamin RAYMOND) posted on a right-wing forum: “To ensure we are on the right path I propose instituting the following litmus test; to be on ‘our side’ a nationalist must be openly racist and openly antisemitic – This is not a hard standard to meet. ... Educated readers will agree that there is no legitimate reason to not be a racist or an anti-Semite in 2014. Race – isn’t even up for debate, the battlefield today is race with two teams ‘racist’ and ‘anti-racist’, there are no neutrals allowed.”

This was coming from a person of Jewish Heritage, a pro-Zionist, and supporter of Israel and of Israel's actions in Gaza and The West Bank against the native Palestinian inhabitants (see later).

Later, RAYMOND goes on to say: “First, National Action was never anything to do with the New Right or the ‘intellectual’ counter currents talk shop. It is self-organized and self-funded by fascists with no association with the wider movement or this gay ‘dark enlightenment’ thing. We can say this because we were founded in violent opposition to the prospect of a poorly executed British ‘generation identity’ clone.” RAYMOND went on to expound that purpose (of the formation of National Action): “Secondly the most exceptional care was taken to warn against any attempt to ‘copy’ similar youth groups in Europe.”^{15 16}

So, what was RAYMOND's intent? Obviously, he was not so stupid to believe his VNN ‘manifest’ for National Action would result in any mass movement emerging. He would know, however, it would cause considerable public outrage – and especially if NA members committed acts of violence. It would shame native British people. The native British people would, therefore, be forced to be even more accommodating and conciliatory toward the demands of the minority populations within the UK.

¹³ For example, the National Action website was first registered on the 21st September 2013

¹⁴ ‘National Action Protests? - Anyone Familiar with This’, posted by Jackbootsharman, Vanguard News Network Forum, 21st April 2014, source: <http://vnnforum.com/showthread.php?t=176545&page=2>

¹⁵ ‘National Action Protests? - Anyone Familiar with This’, posted by Jackbootsharman, Vanguard News Network Forum, 21st April 2014, source: <http://vnnforum.com/showthread.php?t=176545&page=2>

¹⁶ Although the author of that post – ‘Jackbootsharman’ – has been identified elsewhere as Alex Davies, it is almost certainly to have been co-founder Benjamin Raymond. The poster refers to himself as “Ben”, and the material is more in Raymond's style.

The State would therefore also have to provide more specific resources to the police and security services to combat what would be perceived as a rise in 'racist, white-supremacist, extremism and terrorism'. And the UK State would have to be much more receptive to requests and demands from other states (and in this case, especially from Israel).

In general terms, it will have reinforced the perception of a native population being a source for a potentially serious endemic 'problem' – requiring some sort of rectifying action.

It is noted as being especially interesting (and is seen as very significant) that the phrase "we were founded" was used, rather than "we founded". It is a parapraxis 'slip of the tongue' that reveals something rather interesting – that there was a 'higher authority' involved in the creation of National Action, and specifically for the purpose of attacking (and destroying) the ethno-nationalist Generation Identity.¹⁷

This was clearly a major blunder by Benjamin RAYMOND - the 'founder' and one of the leaders of National Action. As we will see, the "violent opposition" to GI was to be achieved by proxy – by inciting hate and violence against GI members and GI events, by expropriating GI campaign issues (especially against State-imposed mass immigration, the grooming gang scandal, and multiculturalism) as forms of neo-Nazi ideological 'activism'. GI was essentially an ethno-nationalist movement that was attempting to promote the natural right of the European people to maintain their homelands and their actual autonomy. It therefore opposed globalism, mass settler immigration and multiculturalism.

In that same VNN post, RAYMOND expressed his admiration for the Zionist terrorist Anders BEHRING BREIVIK – a man who, in July 2011, on the Island of Utoya, slaughtered 69 young people attending a pro-Palestinian BDS rally, shortly after he had attempted to assassinate the leading figures of the pro-Palestine Norwegian Government, in the Government HQ Building in Oslo (where 8 people died when his van-bomb exploded).^{18 19} Following RAYMOND's arrest in April 2021, the police found a copy of BEHRING BREIVIK's 'manifesto' in RAYMOND's house.

In September 2015, BBC TV published a 10-minute video interview with Benjamin RAYMOND.²⁰ The purpose was clearly to give credence as to the bona-fide nature of RAYMOND and National Action – and presumably to help promote that group's purported ideological beliefs and its 'direct action' intentions.²¹

¹⁷ The corollary of this would be Bill Gates or Paul Allen saying of Microsoft: "We [Microsoft] were founded [to develop software products]"; instead of "We founded [Microsoft] to ..." – it just wouldn't make sense.

¹⁸ In 2013 Dr Amy Zalman observed: "Or the case of Anders Breivik, who as you know, was motivated by a complicated ideological cocktail of Islamophobia, anti-feminism and a self-styled version of Zionism, when he murdered 77 people in Oslo several years ago." Given that this was part of a dialogue with The Swedish Defence College, it is certain that such knowledge was also shared with the Swedish security service (SÄPO). Source: 'National Strategy in a Maturing Information Age', by Dr. Amy Zalman, US DoD National War College, Washington DC, keynote presentation to The Swedish Defence College, 21st October 2013. Notably, Dr. ZALMAN has worked for, or in collaboration with, various US Government and international agencies, including: US Congress, US Department of State (under Hilary Clinton); US Office of The Secretary of State; NATO; US Army War College; National Intelligence University (Proteus USA); US Special Operations Command (SOCOM, Tampa, USA); and SAIC (Leidos).

¹⁹ 'Oslo, Utoya, and Breivik, 22/07/2022', by Anthony Shell, July 2017. [129 pages, 569 references; re-publication in progress]

²⁰ 'Radicals: I'm a proud racist', BBC TV, 3rd September 2015, source: <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-34119417>

²¹ On the 28th November 2018 I wrote to the BBC, asking for details of all payments (or 'payments in kind') made by the BBC to past or present members of, or representatives for, National Action. The BBC refused to provide that information, claiming exemption under FOIA 2000. Source: letter received from the BBC on the 10th December 2018 – reference n° RF120182256.

An analysis of the broadcast – and, in particular, the conversations between Benjamin RAYMOND and BBC reporter Catrin NYE – is rather revealing.²² In that interview he states he was “born in Bognor Regis and I have lived there all my life”.²³ When pressed by NYE, he refused to discuss his upbringing, saying only: “I have no parents”. He clearly didn’t want to discuss his ‘roots’. However, RAYMOND is also recorded as saying, in a radio (podcast) interview with Greg JOHNSON of Counter Currents Publishing, in February 2016 (i.e. just 5 months later), that: “I spent the first few years of my life in Spain”.²⁴

Benjamin RAYMOND couldn’t have been in two places at once. So – why the deception? However, on listening to Benjamin RAYMOND, a pronounced Australian accent is very apparent.²⁵

In early 2016 members of National Action performed the horrifically sick stunt of photographing themselves doing Nazi salutes and displaying their neo-Nazi flag, in (what they, themselves, referred to as) the “killing room” at the Buchenwald Nazi death camp in Germany.²⁶ Obviously, National Action attracted vile people, with especially nasty and perverted beliefs – and who acted out such characteristics through very sickening behaviour. The especially sick handwritten comment, added to that picture, has been identified as that of Benjamin RAYMOND.

On the 29th November 2016 James POULTER, writing for VICE (UK), expressed his opposition to the UK Government banning National Action, saying it would be “a waste of time” and would be ineffective.²⁷ However, on the 16th December 2016 the Home Office belatedly announced that the neo-Nazi National Action had been proscribed as a terrorist group – describing that group as “a racist, anti-Semitic, and homophobic organization which stirs up hatred, glorifies violence and promotes a vile ideology.”²⁸

Most notably it would appear that all the arrests, charges and convictions in connection with National Action were, at that time, limited to the ‘low hanging fruit’ (including those after the Home Office banning order had been made) – they did not include actions against the people who had been involved in the creation, the ideological propaganda, the financing, the strategy, or the overall operations within (or connected to) that organization, such as Benjamin RAYMOND. This was inexplicable.

In June 2018 Jack RENSHAW – a member of National Action – admitted in court of plans to murder the Member of Parliament Rosie COOPER and of threatening to kill a woman police officer. Those admissions came after the court heard evidence from a National Action ‘whistle blower’ Mr. Robert MULLEN, who was ²² On the 13th June 2019 – viewing the BBC documentary on YouTube.

²³ In fact, official records show a Benjamin K Raymond being born in Chichester, Sussex, in 1989.

²⁴ ‘National Action – Greg Johnson Interviews Benjamin Raymond, Part 1’, Counter-Currents Publishing, 8th February 2016

²⁵ Benjamin Raymond claims that his accent (‘twang’) is often mistaken for American, Australian or South African, but (oddly) asserts that it is due to his Catalan heritage see: ‘National Action – Greg Johnson Interviews Benjamin Raymond, Part 1’, Counter-Currents Publishing, 8th February 2016. In fact, he has a rather distinct middle-class (albeit rather refined) Australian accent – think a male version of Germaine Greer. Raymond can be heard speaking in: ‘Radicals: I’m a proud racist’, BBC TV, 3rd September 2015, source: <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-34119417>

²⁶ This was the room in which, during WW2, the Nazi SS had most cruelly hung 1,100 men, women and children – to die by slow strangulation. See also: ‘British neo-Nazi perform Hitler salute at Buchenwald concentration camp in Germany’, by Lizzie Dearden, 26th May 2016

²⁷ ‘Why Banning British Nazis Is a Waste of Time’, James POULTER, VICE (UK), 29th November, 2016.

²⁸ ‘National Action becomes first extreme right-wing group to be banned in UK’, The Home Office press release, 16th December 2016, source: <http://www.gov.uk> also working for Hope Not Hate at that time. Notably Jack RENSHAW was also convicted of the sexual grooming of young boys – thereby managing to ‘tick all the boxes’ as an especially obnoxious individual.

In a YouTube interview of Robert MULLEN, by Matthew COLLINS (Hope Not Hate), there are these comments: “After the ban [December 2016] I [Robbie MULLEN] knew something was going to happen”; “[Robbie MULLEN] asked for our help to get out”; “Started working for us just after the Manchester Arena bombing” (i.e. circa June 2017, approximately 6 months after NA was banned); “He came to us [Hope not Hate] because we are anti-racists, anti-fascists ...”; and “[Robbie MULLEN] came to us in April 2017”.^{29 30}

What is strange, in those Hope Not Hate video interviews of Robbie MULLEN, is the ‘body language’ of both Robert MULLEN and the interlocutor (Matthew COLLINS of Hope Not Hate). Both appear inexplicably ill at ease – almost ‘shifty’ in their demeanor. The expectation should be (of course) that they should have been exuberantly proud of the undercover work – leading to the thwarting of an appalling plan to murder a Member of Parliament. Notably the video interviews seem to have been heavily edited.

The appalling dilemma for Robert MULLEN had been (of course) that even after December 2016 he had continued to be a member of National Action, met with other members, and did important work for the group. He therefore would have known that if caught, he would most likely have gone to prison for a very long time. He must also have suspected that by that time Hope Not Hate already knew his identity.³¹ Most probably Robbie MULLEN realized that he had no choice other than contacting Hope Not Hate, and of doing some sort of deal – and hence the peculiar ‘body language’ when recounting those times.

Interestingly Matthew COLLINS has previously shown interest in the political activities of Jack RENSHAW, four years before RENSHAW hatched his murderous plot. In October 2014 Matthew COLLINS informed his Hope Not Hate readership that Jack RENSHAW had been summarily expelled from the ethno-nationalist British National Party (BNP), on the orders of BNP Chairman Nick GRIFFIN.³² The most plausible explanations for RENSHAW’s sudden expulsion were either (1) the discovery by the BNP of RENSHAW sexual proclivities; or (2) the discovery, by the BNP, that he had been secretly involved with National Action – whilst also gathering data on the BNP and BNP members.³³

There has also never been any explanation as to why Jack RENSHAW’s sudden expulsion from the BNP (in 2014) was of such interest to Hope Not Hate, at that time. Notably, Hope Not Hate never (openly) queried why a young ‘rising star’ of the BNP was thrown out of that party in such a perfunctory manner. It chose not to raise that question – or even do so much as publicly speculate on the matter. That reticence was very strange.

²⁹ ‘INVESTIGATION – The Plot to Murder MP’, Hope Not Hate, YouTube.com

³⁰ ‘The neo-Nazi terrorist left hate behind and saved the life of an MP’, JOE, (Hope Not Hate), Youtube.com

³¹ Hope Not Hate appears to have had a photo of Mr Mullen attending a National Action march.

³² ‘Griffin pushes ahead with parallel structure’, by Matthew Collins, 4th October 2014, Hope Not Hate, source: <http://www.hopenothate.org.uk/blog/insider/>

³³ National Action had been created in late 2013, the same time Jack Renshaw became an undergraduate student at the Manchester Metropolitan University. He was expelled from that university in 2015 (a year after being expelled from the BNP).

In August 2018 BBC TV published a documentary titled 'The Rise of the Extreme Far-Right in Britain'.³⁴ That documentary featured (prominently, and yet again) the past rise, and activities of the National Action group, within the UK. Contributors to that documentary included former head of UK Counter Terrorism, Sir Mark ROWLEY and Hope Not Hate 'Head of Intelligence' Matthew COLLINS. The documentary included an old video of a National Action 'march' in which approximately sixteen young men (enough to fill a police mini-bus), masked, dressed in black, performing Nazi salutes, being escorted through an English town by a large contingent of police officers. It was a highly theatrical performance by all those involved. Unfortunately, it gave every indication of being a 'staged' event (with the active collaboration of the police).

That documentary prominently featured the rise, and activities of the National Action group, within the UK. Contributors therefore, yet again, included Matthew COLLINS. Mathew COLLINS had been, up until the early 1990s, a violent member of the very violent neo-Nazi sub-group Combat 18. He moved to Australia in circa 1993 after (we are told) he turned 'whistle-blower', and his experiences in Combat 18 were published by Searchlight (the progenitor organization of research subsidiary Hope Not Hate).

Much has been made of the claim that COLLINS fled to Australia to avoid violent retribution from Combat 18 – not returning to the UK until 2004. There is for example, this harrowing description: "After five grueling years as an informer for Searchlight ... the police special branch put him on a plane for Melbourne, where he remained in hiding for 10 lonely years ... He stayed out of politics, worked at a series of go-for jobs and drank." This is not true³⁵ And this: "Collins remained in this country [Australia] for ten years, picking up a slight accent ... Eventually, feeling lonely and disconnected from his family in London, he returned to Britain."³⁶ In fact, COLLINS was actually back in the UK in 1999 to gather background material for an article (a biography of Gerald Gable, the founder of Searchlight Magazine) to be published, in his own name, in the Australia-Israel Review.³⁷ He was doing other research work in regard to the political scene in Australia, for the Australia-Israel Review, for publication worldwide (and, yet again, in his own name).³⁸

Hardly, one might suppose, the behaviour of someone in desperate, fearful hiding, "staying out of politics".

What makes the above account of Matthew COLLIN's association with Combat 18 (and his subsequent fleeing the UK, supposedly in fear of his life because of his 'whistle blowing') all the more bizarre (and interesting) is has been widely reported that Combat 18 was a bogus 'neo-Nazi' sub-group established and operated by UK State agencies and State-affiliated organizations – including a Special Branch operative, and Tim Hepple (aka Tim Matthews), an operative for Searchlight / Hope not Hate.^{39 40 41 42}

³⁴ 'The Rise of the Extreme Far-right in Britain – BBC Newsnight', BBC Newsnight, 17th August 2018 – source: <https://youtube.com/watch?v=jcYnstBgC8M>

³⁵ 'Hatred's Child', by John Elder, The Sydney Morning Herald, 16th October 2011.

³⁶ 'The Undercover Fascist', by Ed Ceasar, The New Yorker, 20th May 2019.

³⁷ 'Smashing Against the Rocks', Matthew Collins, the AIJC, 29th January – 28th February 1999, The Australia Israel Review is a publication of the Australia/Israel & Jewish Affairs Council. Source: <http://www.ajiac.org.au/review/1999/242/gable.html>

³⁸ 'Like a New Man? Pauline Hanson and Her Suitors', by Matthew Collins, The Review (Australia/Israel Jewish Affairs Council), vol. 26, No 8, August 2001. Source: as cited in 'The Jews in Australia', by Suzanne D Rutland, Cambridge University Press.

³⁹ 'Combat 18 Playing with Fire', World in Action, Channel 4 TV, 1998. Source: YouTube copy.

⁴⁰ 'Hateland', by Bernard O'Mahoney, Mainstream Publishing, Edinburgh 2006, page 230 and 234

The purpose of Combat 18 was to enable nationalist or conservative political movements to be labeled and smeared as neo-Nazi, racist, anti-Semitic entities. In the words of one BNP member – violently attacked by Combat 18 members for expressing his suspicions regarding their actual purpose – Combat 18 were the State-run “Nazi enforcers” directed against persons within the conservative, nationalist political scene.⁴³

The Independent Newspaper claimed (in 2020) that Benjamin RAYMOND remained in touch with National Action members after the Home Office banning order, and that he had allegedly advised them on a post-banning operational strategy. His behaviour – including in the Crown Court during the trials of National Action members, where he mocked the defendants – strongly suggests he must have believed (at that time) that he would be exempt from any prosecutorial / judicial sanction by the UK State.⁴⁴

On the 18th December 2018 two young people – Adam THOMAS, and his partner Claudia PATATAS – were given long prison terms for their memberships of the (by now) proscribed group National Action.⁴⁵ Pictures, produced at the trial, show Adam THOMAS posing at home with: a variety of murderous weapons: a swastika flag; a US Confederate flag; a baseball cap (also with a US Confederate Flag) – whilst wearing a KLU-KLUX-KLAN cloak (KKK) and holding their young, infant (newly-born) baby. So, yet again, we see this introduction of a US-based ‘white supremacist’ script into the UK, in regard to a supposed widespread, endemic problem of racist extremism, within the native British (and, especially, English) population. And those actors (THOMAS and PATATAS) were (unwittingly?) playing their part.

Some six months before National Action were officially launched, Adam THOMAS met with a person who was to become a leading figure in that organization (Darren FLETCHER, dressed in a KKK costume). Some fifteen months after National Action was formed, Adam THOMAS travelled to Israel, seeking military training with the IDF. He stayed there for some two years before returning to the UK. Ironically this was the same military force of a nation (Israel) that Benjamin RAYMOND had previously expressed his support for (albeit clandestinely, of course, as Benjamin ‘NOYLES’ in 2011 – see earlier).

Notably, one of the picture shows Adam THOMAS carrying a Garber Gator machete in one hand (exactly the same make of ‘bladed weapon’ owned by National Action member Zack DAVIES, the putative murderer of an elderly Sikh man, as well as (quite bizarrely) a copy of the book ‘National Anarchism – a reader’ by the National Anarchist Movement (NAM) advocate Troy SOUTHGATE – in his other hand, and therefore ludicrously implying a connection between National Action and NAM.^{46 47 48 49}

⁴¹ ‘Hateland’, by Bernard O’Mahoney, Mainstream Publishing, Edinburgh 2006, page 234

⁴² ‘No Retreat’, Dave Hann and Steve Tilzey, Milo Books, Lytham 2003, page 203

⁴³ See, for example, the reports by the former BNP organizer and whistle-blower Simon Tomlin (AKA Simon Smith-Tomlin) – source: <https://thedailyagenda.wordpress.com/2014/01/>

⁴⁴ ‘National Action: Founder of neo-Nazi terrorist group not prosecuted three years after ban’, Lizzie Dearden, The Independent, 30th April 2020

⁴⁵ Adam Thomas was sent to prison for 6½ years, whilst his young wife was sentenced to 5 years.

⁴⁶ In fact, nothing could be further from the truth. The National Anarchist Movement is anti-Statist (and thereby anti-fascist, and anti-Marxist) supports minimal government, local sovereignty, and (especially) vehemently opposes the notion of the inevitability and necessity of ‘left versus right’ social conflict.

⁴⁷ Zack Davies was jailed for attempted murder of the Sikh doctor Dr. Sarandev Bhambra in June 2015

It almost seems (one could argue) that it is as if he was acting out a narrative, drawn from that produced by the progressive-left milieu over the last decade, and as to be found in, for example, in the PRA in North America (Spencer SUNSHINE et al). Most certainly, what he was doing had no relevance whatsoever to the English people, their history (especially) or their culture. So, why was he doing it? How, and why, was he persuaded that it would be such a good thing to do? It is very strange – prompting further investigation.

Undoubtedly the National Action membership included some very unpleasant people, propagating vile ideas, and who had a potential for extreme violence. Some of those people would already have possessed those inclinations and were attracted to National Action given what they thought (or were persuaded to think) it stood for – whilst others may have become so, under the malign influence of National Action itself. And in this regard, it is fortunate that the group membership never amounted to little more than a score of ‘activists’, and about the same number of supporters (note: out of a UK population of some 60 million).

It is seen as interesting (and revealing) that none of mainstream media used their much-vaunted ‘investigative journalism’ resources to investigate and report on the true origins and true intentions of National Action. Instead of which, they simply regurgitated over and over again the same superficial narrative – essentially that National Action was emblematic of the threatening emergence of far-right extremism within the White (i.e. native) population of the UK. No investigation was (or is) necessary.

In September 2019 RAYMOND posted on X that the late Joe COX MP had been “a war criminal who funded terrorism” – a clear reference to her work getting humanitarian aid to Palestinian victims of Israeli aggression in Gaza and The West Bank (especially of children).⁵⁰ Again, this is consistent with RAYMOND’s clandestine support for Israel, and of its actions within the Occupied Territories. And yet another mistake of hubris by an extraordinarily conceited and narcissistic Benjamin RAYMOND.

Benjamin RAYMOND continued leading the neo-Nazi National Action, despite it being designated a terrorist organization by the UK Government.⁵¹ And he did so, for more than 4 years. The UK Government knew what he was doing, and RAYMOND undoubtedly knew they knew. However, by 2021, the UK Government – obviously embarrassed by Benjamin RAYMOND’s careless antics – arrested and charged him, leading to his eventual conviction and commitment to prison (or so we must assume).

Notably Benjamin RAYMOND’s concerns (prior to his creating the neo-Nazi group National Action) particularly centered on his perceptions of a growing threat of extreme anti-Semitism within Australia, and of threats to the safety and security of Israel, itself (see later). The context for this is his attendance at the University of Essex between 2008 – 2011, to study International Relations and National Security – which, generally speaking (and most notably), is a part of a pathway into a career (often as a ‘mature student’ graduate) in one of the following: UK Security Services (MI5) and police Counter Terrorism (CT)

⁴⁸ Indeed, a careful examination of that photo shows something very wrong. THOMAS appears to be under considerable distress – almost close to tears. It very much appears that he was under duress, to pose for that picture. This is in total contrast to the confident bravado he displays in the other pictures,

⁴⁹ ‘Members of banned British neo-Nazi group jailed’, Crown Prosecution Service press release, 18th December, 2018

⁵⁰ Benjamin Raymond @Braymo89 Twitter, 25th September 2019

⁵¹ ‘National Action becomes first extreme right-wing group to be banned in UK’, The Home Office press release, 16th December 2016, source: <http://www.gov.uk> departments (including as undercover operatives); the UK Civil Service; or in journalism covering such matters for the UK mainstream media.

This report therefore has an especially important relevance in regard to contemporary events (at the time of first issue completion, August 2024): the protests by English people in regard to an imposed government policy of mass immigration and the violence originating from within that immigrant-heritage population targeted against native English people – and of the likelihood of UK State agencies using bogus ‘far right’ groups, and individuals, to discredit and demonize those English protestors.

The fake National Action operation looked – superficially, at least – to have been rather amateurish. However, it was not. The very professionally-produced (and nastily contrived and highly offensive) banners, and the extensive collaborations between the UK police and National Action (on agreements on assembly-points, route-march arrangements, and escorting) – and somewhat giving the game away.

Questioning the origins, the authenticity and the purpose of the ostensibly anti-Semitic, neo-Nazi National Action sub-group (and other such sub-groups) tends to have had bad consequences. To do so has been likely to have had (and still does) draw from State agencies, and from their proxies, fake accusations of ulterior motives, and of lying. Attempts have been made (and will be made) to target those who challenge the State-dictated narrative, with fabricated reputational destruction – including by feeding to them false information from official State agency sources, so as to entrap them into making false claims actionable in law (defamation and / or of criminal incitement). [see Figure ##] Naïve and easily manipulatable members of such fake sub-groups will be encouraged to attack those raising such questions – to stop questions being asked, and to maintain and to reinforce the fake (State) narrative.

So, what have further investigation shown?

It appears to have been The Express newspaper that led the way, in circa 2013, in publishing the neo-Nazi National Action’s Benjamin RAYMOND’s (supposed) biographical details. Unfortunately, practically all of that information (on RAYMOND) was given in such a way as to make it impossible to check for the veracity of that information – or to undertake any subsequent, useful enquiries. It was from that particular Daily Express article that almost all information on Benjamin RAYMOND’s supposed childhood, upbringing, schooling, early (far-right) radicalization, etc., was inserted into the public domain (and public mind).

A matter that might at first seem to have ‘muddled the waters’ considerably might, however, leads to a new light being shone upon the subject matter of this enquiry to a very extraordinary (and very perplexing) extent – in terms of an extraordinary conjunction of names, events and of timelines – and to a very astonishing extent. The implications of this are potentially enormous.

So, in that regard – and by an almost unbelievable coincidence – the question is, then, what happened to the ‘other’ Benjamin (Ben) RAYMOND – the (UK) Daily Express’s top correspondent in Israel between the 15th September 2001 and 19th January 2009? Why did he (the Daily Express journalist) mysteriously disappear in 2009? And why are his biographical details (and photo) completely unavailable? Up until then, Ben RAYMOND had been one of 32 top Daily Express journalists (and leading foreign correspondent).^{52 53} Over a 7½-year period RAYMOND's Daily Express articles appeared, under his byline Ben RAYMOND, and on (to begin with, at least) a very regular basis.

From 2001 to 2006 Ben RAYMOND's boss was the Daily Express Foreign Editor Gabriel MILLAND, based in London. RAYMOND's early articles would often be co-authored with Mr. MILLAND. Obviously, Ben RAYMOND's position as the Israel correspondent (ostensibly based in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem) will have been extremely important – given (especially) the (then) Palestinian Second Intifada, Israeli military actions within both Gaza and Lebanon, and the ongoing situation in Syria.

During that same time (at least, initially) sources indicate that Benjamin RAYMOND was also writing letters – as, ostensibly, a resident of Australia – to major international newspapers and magazines expressing his belief that support by European people to the Palestinian Second Intifada was driven by European anti-Semitism.^{54 55 56} Therefore, at that time, Benjamin RAYMOND – again, ostensibly as a resident of Perth in Western Australia – was expressing his strong concerns in letters to a wide variety of newspapers: Ha'aretz (October 2001); The Age, Melbourne, Australia (April 2002); The Guardian (September 2002 and March 2003); and Newsweek (December 2002).^{57 58 59} So, on the 4th October 2001 Benjamin RAYMOND wrote to the Ha'aretz newspaper in Israel, saying (in part) “As a Jew, I feel it's my duty to speak up ...”.⁶⁰ A part of that “duty” included his seeking out, and exposing, any perceived anti-Semitic behaviour he could find within both Australia (and New Zealand) and (most especially) within Europe.

Most notably, if we take the content of Benjamin RAYMOND's article to the Australian Jewish News in February 2002 to be true and accurate it would give Benjamin RAYMOND's year of birth to be 1983 –

⁵² ‘The Express: REPORTING TEAM’, The Express, 14th September 2001

⁵³ In March 2025 arrangements were made to place a post in X.com requesting information regarding the strange disappearance of the Daily Express foreign correspondent Ben RAYMOND. To-date, no response has been received, whatsoever. [re. x.com; @darklake99; 21st March 2025.

⁵⁴ The Palestinian Second Intifada was from September 2000 to February 2005.

⁵⁵ Such as, for example, the sudden cessation of letters by an Australian resident named Benjamin RAYMOND, to Australian and international newspapers and magazine, dealing with international political matters (and especially concerning the perceived threats to Israel and to Jewish people worldwide) Letters to The Editor, ‘Anti-Semitism is no excuse’, Ha'aretz Daily Newspaper Ltd., Tel Aviv, Israel, 4th October 2001; ‘How Will Israel Survive?’ by staff editor, Newsweek, 12th May 2002. Benjamin RAYMOND, Perth, Australia; Sydney Morning Herald, 18th September 2002; Letters, The Guardian, 12th September 2002; ‘Savage Hypocrisy’, Letters, The Age (Melbourne, Australia), 7th April 2002; Letters, The Age, 7th April 2002; Letters, The Guardian, 12th March 2003.

⁵⁶ The letter to The Age is rather surprising, given that it is a newspaper local to Melbourne (Victoria) area of Australia – and that Raymond was (apparently) writing from Perth, on the opposite side of country. It tends to suggest that his intention was to bring his particular thoughts/ideas to the attention of (particular) residents of Melbourne.

⁵⁷ Such as, for example, the sudden cessation of letters by an Australian resident named Benjamin RAYMOND, to Australian and international newspapers and magazine, dealing with international political matters (and especially concerning the perceived threats to Israel and to Jewish people worldwide) Letters to The Editor, ‘Anti-Semitism is no excuse’, Ha'aretz Daily Newspaper Ltd., Tel Aviv, Israel, 4th October 2001; ‘How Will Israel Survive?’ by staff editor, Newsweek, 12th May 2002. Benjamin RAYMOND, Perth, Australia; Sydney Morning Herald, 18th September 2002; Letters, The Guardian, 12th September 2002; ‘Savage Hypocrisy’, Letters, The Age (Melbourne, Australia), 7th April 2002; Letters, The Age, 7th April 2002; Letters, The Guardian, 12th March 2003.

⁵⁸ The letter to The Age is rather surprising, given that it is a newspaper local to Melbourne (Victoria) area of Australia – and that Raymond was (apparently) writing from Perth, on the opposite side of country. It tends to suggest that his intention was to bring his particular thoughts/ideas to the attention of (particular) residents of Melbourne.

⁵⁹ ‘Compelling journey of self-discovery – Anne Frank: The Diary of a Young Girl’, review by Benjamin Raymond, The Australian Jewish News, Friday, February 15 2002.

⁶⁰ Letter from Benjamin Raymond, in Letters to the Editor, Ha'aretz, 4th October, 2001 – in response to ‘What Next’, by Sari Nusseibeh, Ha'aretz, 24th Septer, 2001 making him some 6 years older than that regularly reported by the UK media and by the UK criminal court services, and also by himself.⁶¹ in that article – ‘Compelling Journey of Self Discover’ – Benjamin Raymond gave a heart-felt account of the life and times of the young diarist Anne Frank in WW2 Nazi-occupied Holland. Coincidentally, just two years later, Ben Raymond (of The Express) produced an article for the Daily Express titled ‘The Express: Is this the new Anne Frank?’ describing the life and times of Helga Deen – another young female victim in WW2 Nazi-occupied Holland.⁶²

Initially, Ben RAYMOND’s Daily Express articles were very openly pro-Israel and anti-Palestinian – and very much so, to an almost disturbing extent.⁶³ However, in the ensuing years, his writings became somewhat more moderate in tone and content (presumably through editorial intervention and urging).

Following an inexplicable gap of approximately 10 months, Ben RAYMOND’s last known journalistic output appeared within the first 3 weeks of January 2009 as a ‘bundle’ of 10 articles, and all still being written as the Israel correspondent of The Express newspaper. No further reports by Ben RAYMOND appeared (whatsoever, in any newspaper) from that time onwards (post January 2009). Coincidentally, this was just three months after the putative (fake) neo-Nazi activist Benjamin RAYMOND began his course as a ‘mature’ student, in International Relations and National Security, at Essex University.

Ben RAYMOND’s early journalism mentor, Gabriel MILLAND, went on to become a special adviser to the UK Government at 10 Downing Street, at The Cabinet Office, at The Ministry of Justice, and at the British Israel Communications and Research Centre (BICOM). Subsequently MILLAND became a major figure in the major policy and lobbyist organization Portland (headquartered in London). Notably Ben RAYMOND is seen to have also worked closely with some other rather interesting ‘journalists’ – and notably, including the anti-Russia / anti-Putin propagandist Will STEWART.⁶⁴ Notably, and presumably coincidentally, Benjamin Raymond was also very anti-Putin in his X.com posts.

Quite clearly Ben RAYMOND was not engaged in ‘journalism’ full time. There were large gaps in his production of articles, sometimes over many months (especially, for some reason, in 2008). Which begs the question – what was he actually doing? This was just a year before the MET’s cryptic warning (see previously). Therefore, Ben RAYMOND’s mysterious final ‘disappearance’ is notable in regard to one very odd development within the UK. It was in the summer of that same year (2009) that these stories began to appear within UK newspapers claiming there was an emerging threat of ‘far-right’ violence by (white), anti-Semitic terrorist groups.⁶⁵ This was despite the fact that no such groups were then known to exist.

Intensive on-line search-engine ‘key word’ searches have not revealed any person of the name Ben Raymond ever having worked as a journalist within the UK. And – and quite extraordinarily – neither do Al

⁶¹ ‘Compelling journey of self-discovery – Anne Frank: The Diary of a Young Girl’, review by Benjamin Raymond, The Australian Jewish News, Friday, February 15 2002.

⁶² ‘The Express: Is this the new Anne Frank?’, by Ben Raymond, The Daily Express, 20th October 2004

⁶³ At a that UK support to HAMAS, was beginning to be represented as an anti-Semitic, neo-Nazi form of behaviour.

⁶⁴ ‘Date-night for a traitor: NSA whistleblower Edward Snowden enjoys trip to the theatre with pole dancer girlfriend - as lawyer hints the pair may soon marry in Moscow’, Will Stewart, The Mail Online, 14th October 2014.

⁶⁵ For example: ‘Police fear far-right terror attack’, Vikram Dodd, The Guardian, 6th July 2009.

searches in regard to that same query. [see attached scans, Figure ##] It appears that there has been a very thorough effort to remove / scrub / conceal all such information. However, not thorough enough. In March 2025 arrangements were made for an appeal to be posted on X.com, appealing for information on 'Ben' RAYMOND – describing him as the former, top foreign correspondent in Israel, for the UK Daily Express newspaper, and listing by name his associates at that newspaper, at that time. Despite more than 100 'clicks' onto that post (and, in all likelihood very many more 'views') there was zero response.

So, why would Ben Raymond's professional journalistic existence within the UK be 'disappeared'? Why would such apparently strenuous efforts be made to hide such information from the general public?

Conclusions

The definitive (and verifiable) conclusions to this report are as follows:

A UK-based, and fake neo-Nazi sub-group, National Action (2013-2020) was created and operated to help stop the emergence of any European ethno-nationalist movement – a movement opposed to authoritarianism, racism (against all peoples), and neo-colonial globalism.

Initially the target of National Action was the ethno-nationalist movement Generation Identity – and all similar movements that supported: ethnic autonomy; protection from and resistance to genocide (from population replacement-ism); the necessity for remigration; anti-statism or minimal state powers; localism; maximal local self-sufficiency; opposition to religious totalitarianism; and of environmental protections.

The leader of National Action was found to be clandestinely (under various known aliases) giving support to Israel military operations against the Palestinians within the Occupied Territories. For this reason, National Action was very keen to help ensure that any and all forms of nationalism, within Europe, to be seen as anti-Semitic – thereby revealing the true purpose behind the fakery of that sub-group.

This report describes only a very small part of a problem (of political fakery, and the grotesque manipulation of public sentiment) that has existed across Europe (and especially within the UK) for many decades. Much more research is necessary. And further reports will follow.

END

Benjamin RAYMOND's (alias 'NOYLES') Blog - 2008

Blogger: User Profile: Benjamin Noyles

18/03/2015 06:42

This is Google's cache of <https://www.blogger.com/profile/13347668786289282408>. It is a snapshot of the page as it appeared on 4 Mar 2015 07:37:30 GMT. The current page could have changed in the meantime. Learn more
Tip: To quickly find your search term on this page, press Ctrl+F or ⌘+F (Mac) and use the find bar.

Text-only version

Benjamin Noyles

View Full Size

Contact me

Email

My Web Page

On Blogger since December 2008

Profile views - 1307

My blogs

BRITAIN AWAKE

Integralist News

Books I follow

A Journey, Fascism.

Excentric

Integralist News

New Right Australia/New Zealand Stargazer

State & Unity

The Australian Nationalist

The Nigger Times

The Union State

Towards an Integralist Britain!

Traditional Action

Your Daily Nietzsche!

About me

GenderMale

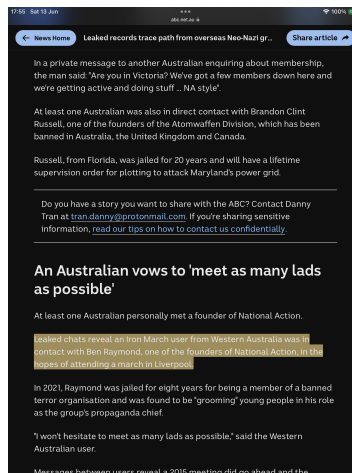

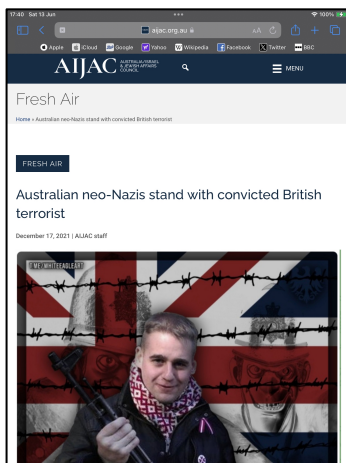

LocationUnited Kingdom

LinksAudio Clip

<http://webcache.googleusercontent.com/search?q=cache:Xt1pu9jzJ...er.com/profile/13347668786289282408&cd=13&hl=en&ct=clnk&gl=uk>

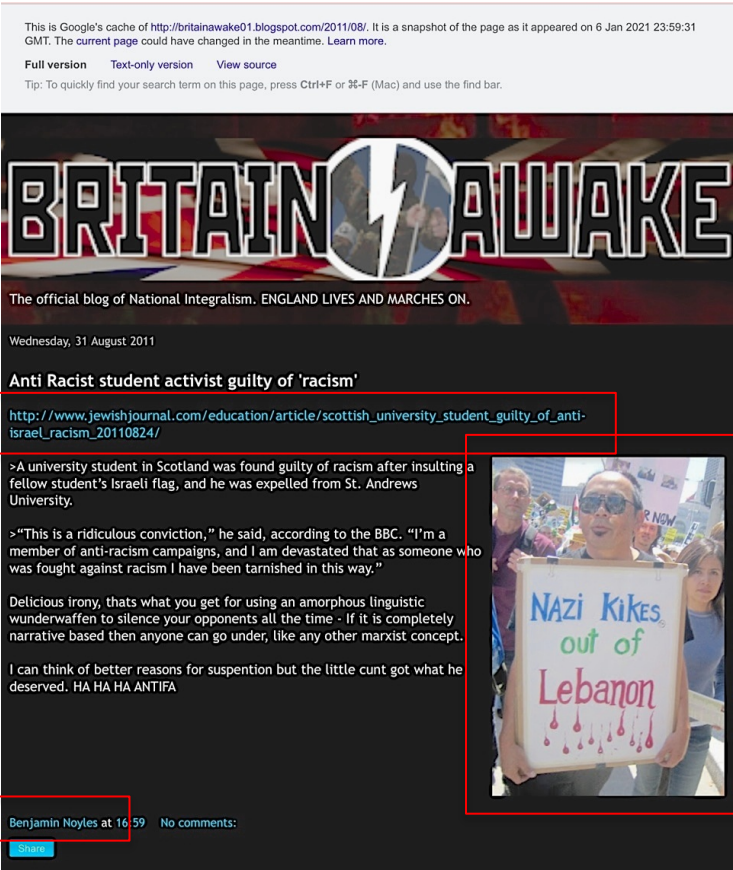

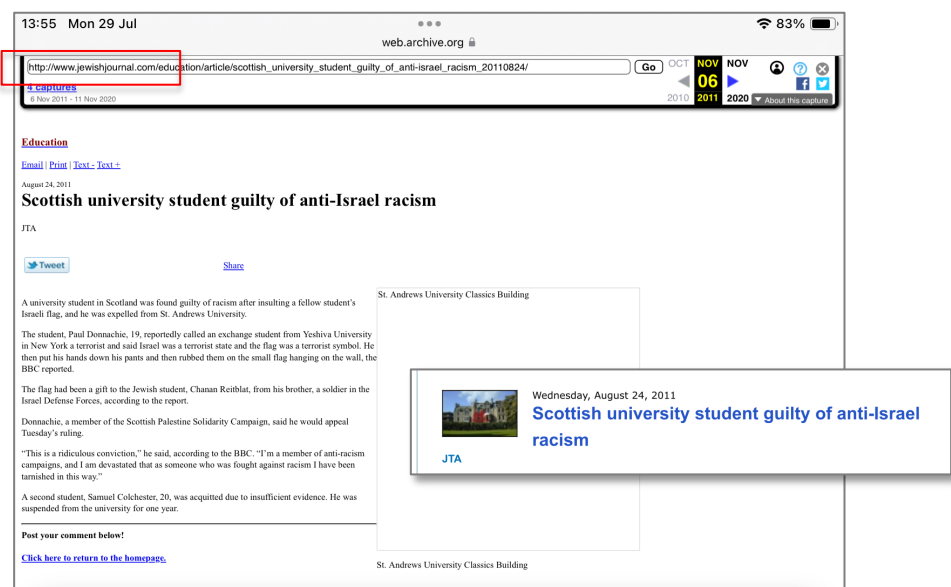

Page 1 of 1

Benjamin RAYMOND therefore opened this Blog account at the end of his first term of study in International Relations and National Security, at the University of Essex. Note the specific and particular his linking to nationalist sites in Australia / New Zealand.

Post-2020, and Benjamin RAYMOND's connection to Australian groups is confirmed.

Benjamin RAYMOND (aka 'NOYLES') Supports Israel, 2011

Benjamin RAYMOND appears to have used a photo (above) from his own research archives. This was in place of the photo of St. Andrews University used in the original Jewish Journal source article. Here he attacks anti-Israel, pro-Palestine protesters.

The Purpose of National Action, Inadvertently Revealed

National Action Protests? - Anyone Familiar with This - Page 2 - Vanguard News Network Forum

13/09/2014 08:16

This is Google's cache of <http://vnnforum.com/showthread.php?t=176545&page=2>. It is a snapshot of the page as it appeared on 10 Sep 2014 21:32:33 GMT. The current page could have changed in the meantime. Learn more
Tip: To quickly find your search term on this page, press Ctrl+F or ⌘-F (Mac) and use the find bar.

Text

Text-only version

Vanguard News NetworkVNN MediaVNN Digital LibraryVNN Reader MailVNN BroadcastsLocal BlogsMiscellaneous

Initializing ticker...

Vanguard News Network Forum > News & Discussion > Europe > United Kingdom

National Action Protests? - Anyone Familiar with This

MultimediaBlogs

User NameRemember Me?

PasswordLog in

Mark Forums Read

Page 2 of 5 < 1 2 3 4 5 >

		My name is Ben, I handle some aspects of National Action (I do most of the art/design and am the speaker in the videos) take from that what you will, I don't speak for the organisation and I think we have supporters on here anyway. Anybody who wants to probe a CV of my posting career can - but I am basically here to dispell some of the mild criticism by pointing to some existing material that you missed and I think is worthy of your attention. These are all things advertised on the site and if you had read in the first place then some people here wouldn't look like asshats. First - National Action was never anything to do with the New Right or the 'intellectual' counter currents talk shop. It is self organised and self funded by fascists with no association with the wider movement or this gay 'dark enlightenment' thing. We can say this because we were founded in violent opposition to the prospect of a poorly executed British 'generation identity' clone. please read. Quote: By Benjamin Raymond A key emphasis of National Action has always been to focus on what our message is - and that real political change can only be facilitated when we can establish a firm ideological foundation. It is for this reason that the first policy on which we all agreed was that we must claim Nationalism for ourselves with the aim of exclusively owning the concept.
--	--	---

		It is an unwritten rule that nationalists must refrain from attacking other nationalists - we must fight together - on this I agree, but this requires that the parameters of 'Nationalist' be set for the phrase to have meaning. To ensure we are on the right path I propose instituting the following litmus test; to be on 'our side' a nationalist must be openly racist and openly antisemitic - This is not a hard standard to meet. Any true Nationalist meets this, all it really tests is team spirit and practical politeness. My thinking is that major hang ups are suspicious - It hides something, it betrays mixed reasoning. Educated readers will agree that there is no legitimate reason to not be a racist or an anti-semitic in 2014. Race - isn't even up for debate, the battlefield today is race with two teams 'racist' and 'anti-racist', there are no neutrals allowed. Weakness on the Jewish question is simply unforgivable, ignorance is inexcusable, the Jew has a name and it glares
--	--	---

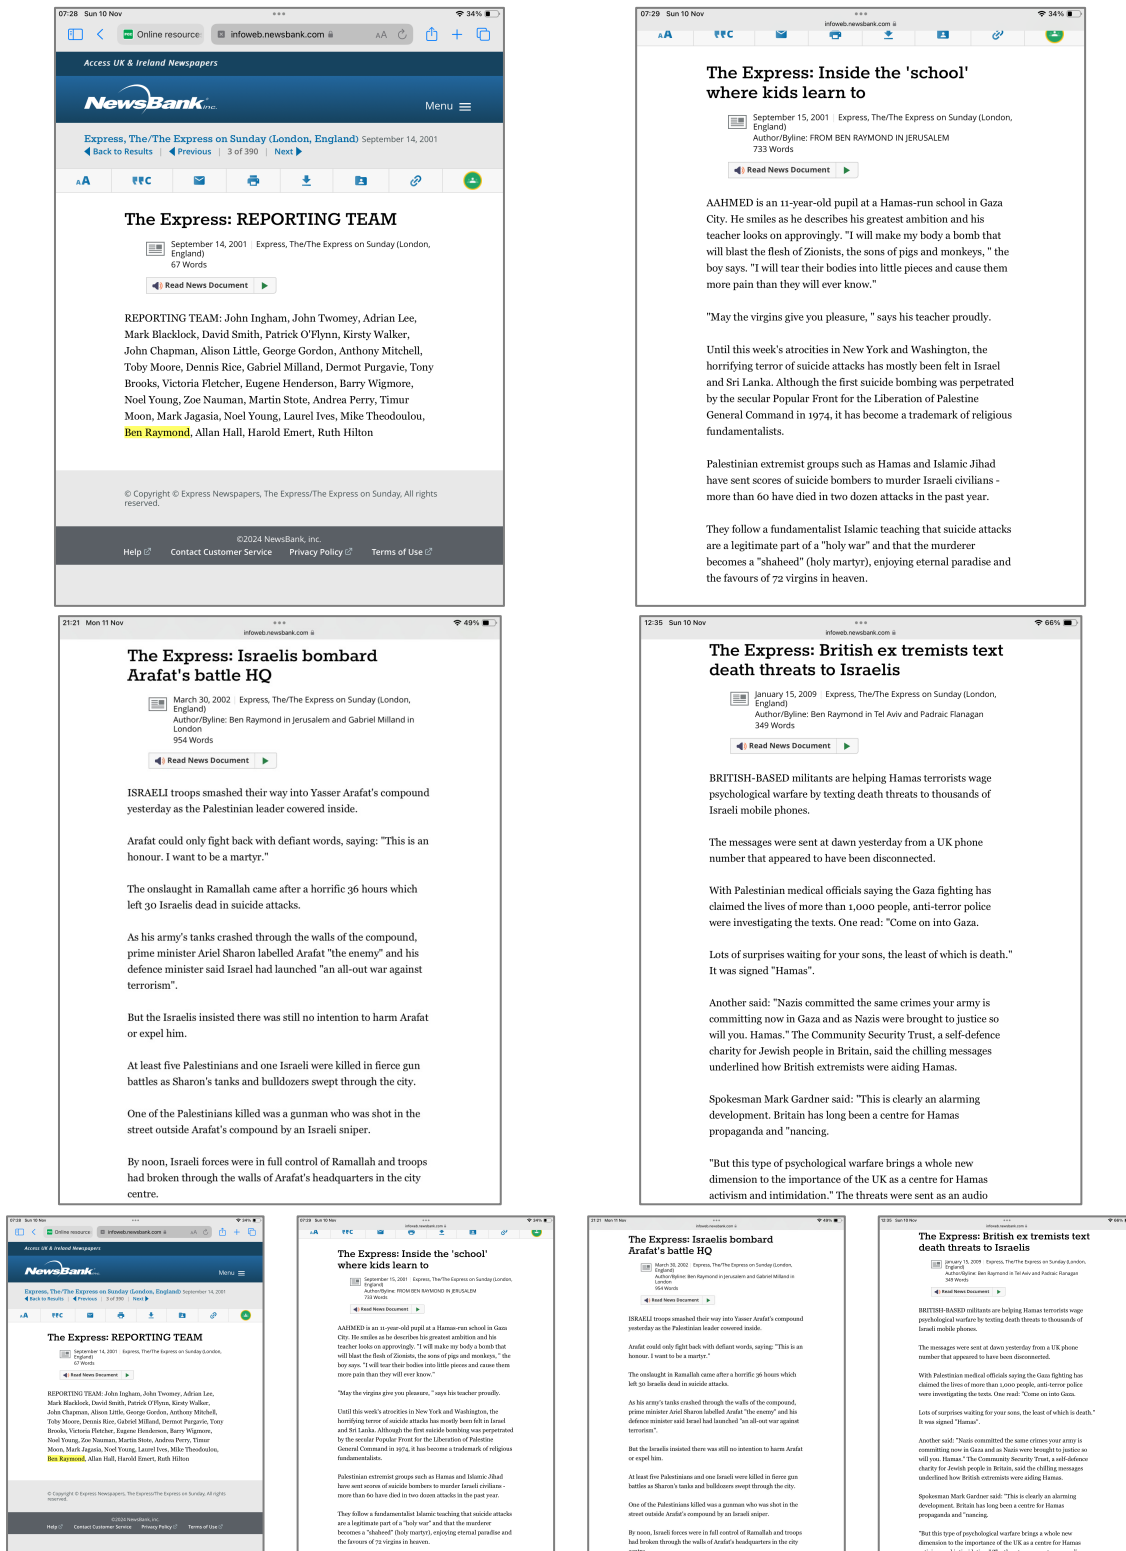

© Anthony Shell Aug 2024 / July 2026 A FAKED HARD-RIGHT UK TERRORISM MICRO-GROUP [1]?

The Weird 'Theatre' of National Action Marches

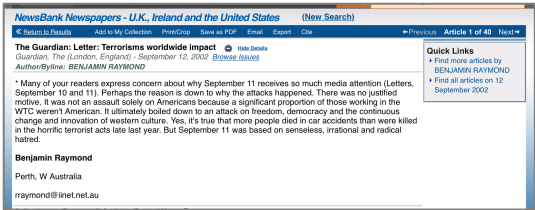

The rise of the extreme far-right in Britain - BBC Newsnight

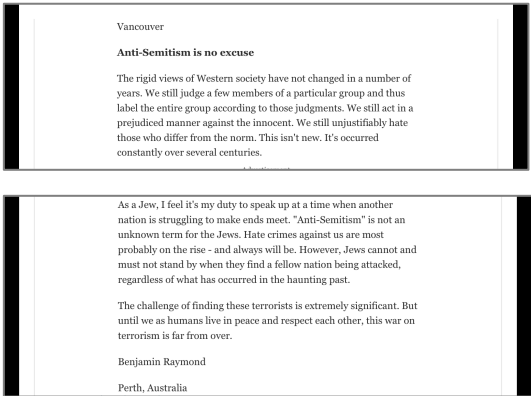

Ben RAYMOND's Daily Express Journalism (Examples)- 2001 to 2009)

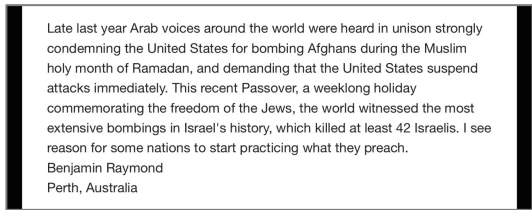

'Benjamin' RAYMOND's Pro-Israel Letters to The Press, 2001-2003

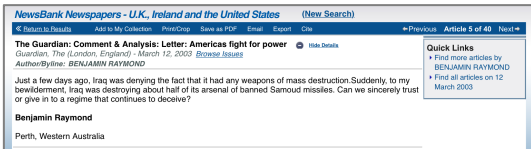

Source: Letters, The Guardian, 12th September 2002

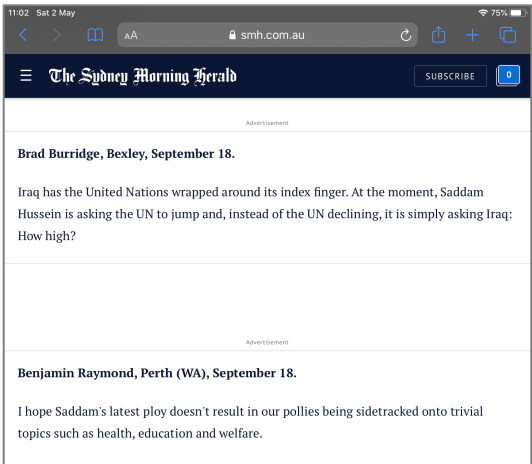

Letters to the Editor, Ha'aretz, 4th October, 2001

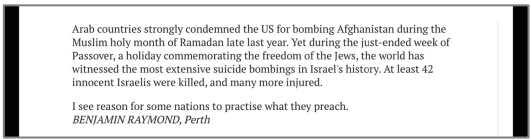

'How Will Israel Survive?', Newsweek, 12th May 2002

Source: Letters, The Guardian, 12th March 2003

The Sydney Morning Herald, 18th September 2002

Letters, The Age, 7th April 2002

The Manipulation of Adam THOMAS?

The electronic date stamps on the above photos, show Adam Thomas was in Israel 21 months after he met with Darren Fletcher (a putative neo-Nazi National Action recruiter).

AI Overview

There is no public record or evidence that Christchurch mosque shooter Brenton Tarrant met anyone specific during his 9-day tourist visit to Israel in October 2016. Axios +1

Israeli officials confirmed that Tarrant arrived from Turkey on October 25, 2016, on a 90-day tourist visa and left the country nine days later. According to the Times of Israel, security officials stated his entry did not raise any red flags. Authorities were unable to uncover further details on his itinerary or his specific activities during his brief stay. Reuters +2

AI Overview

No, the Knesset has never held a formal discussion or dedicated debate regarding the Christchurch mosque shooter, Brenton Tarrant.

While individual Israeli politicians (including former President Reuven Rivlin) and various Israeli civil rights groups did formally condemn the attack when it happened in March 2019, the parliamentary body itself did not bring Tarrant's specific actions to the Knesset floor for legislative or political debate. The Times of Israel +1

Just 9 months prior to carrying out the Mosque shooting in Christchurch (on the 15th March 2019) Brendon TARRANT repeatedly attempted to meet with, and to record a meeting with, one of the leaders of Generation Identity, Matthew SELLINGER. He was unsuccessful.

However, in late 2016 TARRANT spent 9 days in Israel. No information has ever been released of whom he met or where he went / stayed, during his 9-day visit. It was never discussed or debated in the Knesset. The Israel Shin Bet (internal police) have never commented. And it was never investigated by Western mainstream journalists. Why not?

A False Flag Stunt, in Plain Sight

A A A  Careers Contact

 MENU

Members of banned British neo-Nazi group jailed

— 18 December 2018 | News, Terrorism

Six people including a couple have been jailed today for being members of National Action, a proscribed group that glorifies Hitler and the Third Reich.

Adam Thomas with a machete

The group was banned by the Home Office in December 2016.

Adam Thomas, 22, and Claudia Patatas, 38, from Banbury were found guilty along with Daniel Bogunovic, 27, on 12 November following a four week trial at Birmingham Crown Court. Thomas was also found guilty of having a terrorist manual on his laptop that gave advice on homemade explosives including a "soft drink can bomb".

Three others pleaded guilty to being members of the banned organisation before the trial began on 8 October. Darren Fletcher, 29, Nathan Pryke, 27, and Joel Wilmore, 24, admitted the offence under the Terrorism Act. Wilmore also pleaded guilty to possessing a terrorist manual about how to make Molotov cocktails.

They were all sentenced on 18 December:

- Adam Thomas - Total of six years and six months.
- Claudia Patatas - Five years.
- Daniel Bogunovic - Six years and four months.
- Darren Fletcher - Total of five years which includes 20 months for breaching a Criminal Anti-Social Behaviour Order (CrASBO).
- Nathan Pryke - Five years and five months.

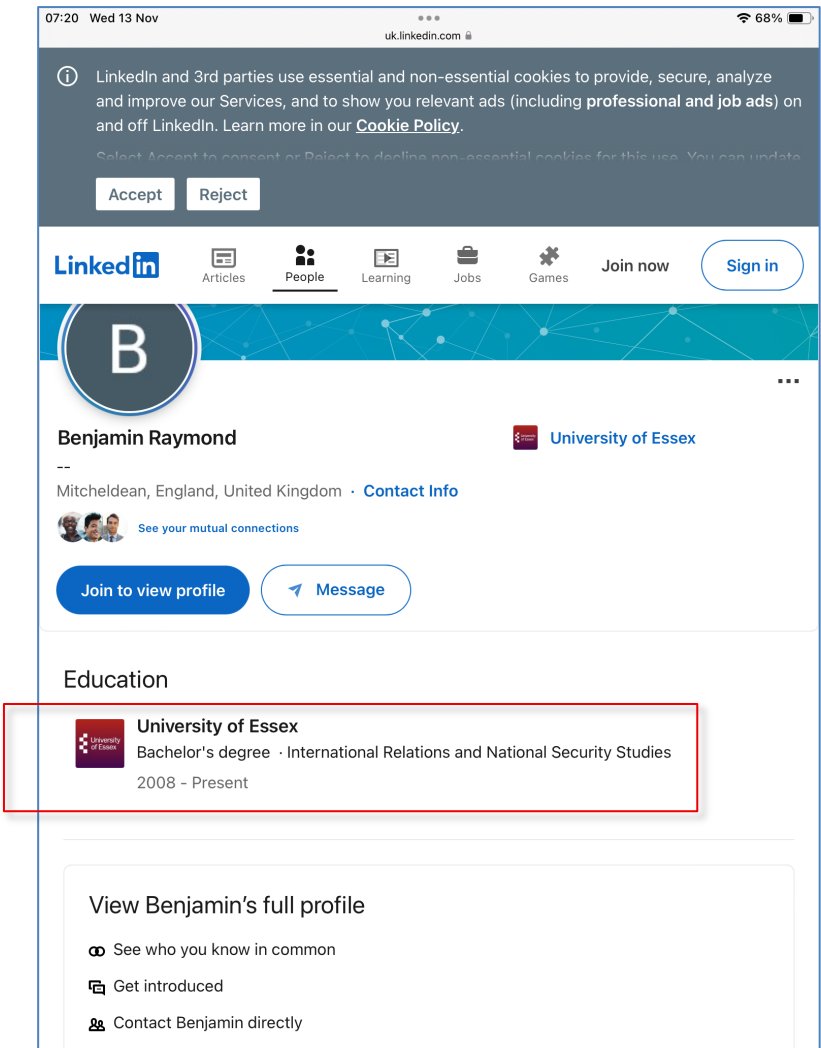

The ludicrous National Action stunt, shown above, is emblematic of crude false flag operation we are increasingly being subjected to. In fact, the ideology of the National Anarchism Movement is essentially the very antithesis of Hitler-ism and Nazism.

The purpose is, actually, transparently obvious - to reverse that actuality into a weapon for the benefit of globalist, authoritarian socialism, such as to portray autonomous ethno-nativism as a wicked conspiratorial form of 'closet' Nazism.

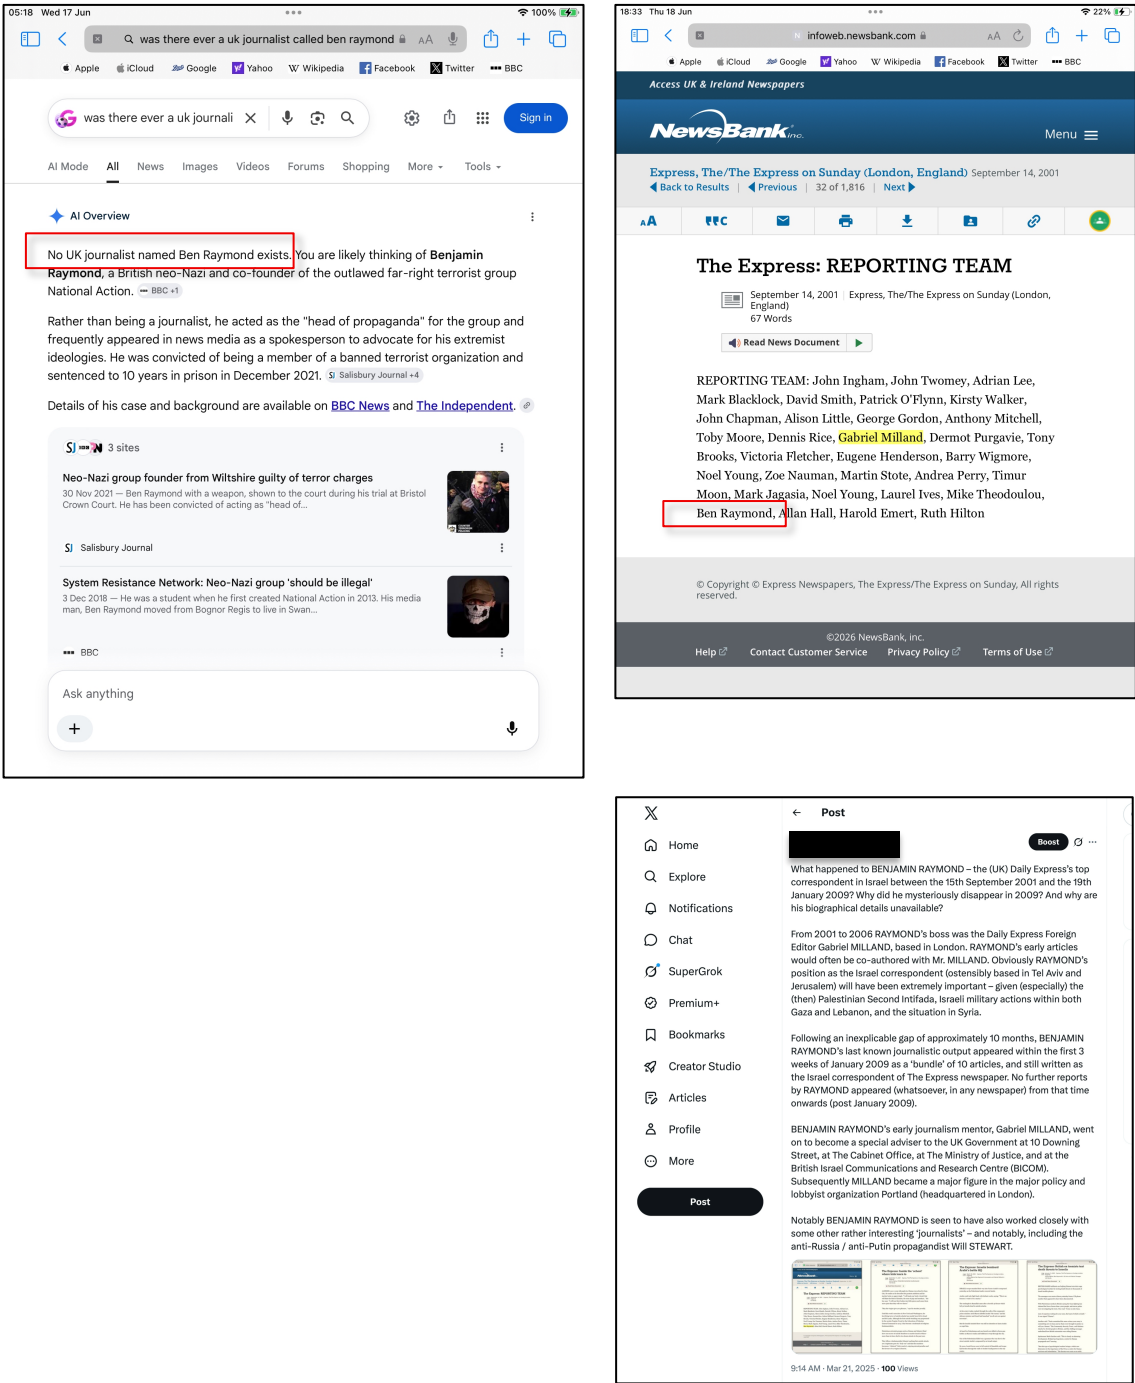

Either the CPS knew this (and hence the cropped photo), or - and much more likely - is that the CPS staff wrongly believed such nonsense, and therefore believed that to include the NAM book would expose the public to that supposed ideology.

Benjamin Raymond's 'Linkedin' Biography Data

IMG_3056.PNG

The Post-Priori 'Disappearing' of Express Journalist Ben RAYMOND

ADDENDUM: IRONMARCH.org – A FAKE NEO-NAZI FORUM?

By Anthony Shell August 2024 (note: updated June 2026)

In March 2018 an article titled 'The Obscure Neo-Nazi Forum Linked to a Wave of Terror', by journalist James POULTER, was published by VICE (UK). Included within that VICE article was the following: *"IronMarch.org was not the kind of website to hang out on if you knew what was good for you. A swastika-plastered forum which took its users on a shared journey of extreme radicalization, it kick-started an international wave of Nazi terror. Users of IronMarch.org have attempted a mall shooting; murdered two young men; attempted to hack a Sikh dentist with a machete; and have been found to be in possession of illegal weapons and material to make bombs, among other crimes."*⁶⁶

That article became the 'go-to' source for information on IronMarch.org, for all mainstream journalists and 'anti-extremism' groups – and is therefore listed as the primary source, as reference (1) on Wikipedia.

For reasons not given within his article, James POULTER identified a Russian named Alexander SLAVROS as "one of the founders" of IronMarch.org. Which begs the question – what was the proof (or, indeed, even reliable evidence) for that particular claim? Notably, he did not name any other "founders". James POULTER lists a particular British person, Benjamin RAYMOND, as "one of the founders of National Action", but only describes RAYMOND as an IronMarch.org "administrator".⁶⁷

Whilst most of those using the IronMarch.org forum used a unique and anonymous name for their account (such as 'Woman in Black', or 'Ritz'), Alexander SLAVROS used his very Russian sounding/appearing name – a name that would have pointed directly to his other social media accounts (including his slavros.org, and his DeviantArt.com accounts). He even put links to both his slavros.org and IronMarch.org sites on his DeviantArt.com pages. This, in itself, was very strange.

On the basis of the circumstances, the context, and the research findings described within this report, it is entirely reasonable to conclude that it was Benjamin RAYMOND (alias Benjamin NOYLES) who provided VICE (UK) with the information that Alexander SLAVROS was a founder of the IronMarch.org forum.

Eighteen months later, on the 6th November 2019, the membership details of the IronMarch.org forum (including user account names, passwords, email addresses, IP addresses and posted comments) were 'leaked' onto the Internet. This prompted considerable interest (and research) by the Internet community – resulting in the 'outing' of those individuals who could be purportedly identified on the basis of that 'leaked' information. This occurred more than eight years after the IronMarch.org had been first launched.

⁶⁶ 'The Obscure Neo-Nazi Forum Linked to a Wave of Terror', James Poulter, VICE magazine, 12th March 2018

⁶⁷ The name Benjamin RAYMOND is a very unusual name - there are less than 30 people of that name listed as living in the UK (male population 30+ million), in the 192.com website. That is to say, less than one in one million men have that particular name.

On two consecutive days, starting on the 6th November 2019, Benjamin RAYMOND posted tweets in which he made various remarks concerning the ‘leaked’ IronMarch.org forum – including this, on the 7th November: “My problem child – the gift that keeps on giving. Oh boy, nostalgia time!” Most significantly, that particular comment included RAYMOND’s linking to a Twitter post by a US-based, and secretive, anti-Russia propaganda organization PROPORNOT. Most notable is RAYMOND’s use of the phrase “My problem child” rather than “Our problem child” – as possibly an unintended admission, by him, of his sole role in the origination and founding of the neo-Nazi IronMarch.org forum.

PROPORNOT has extraordinary similarities to UK-based BELLINGCAT. Notably, PROPORNOT appears to have been the originator of the story that: (1) the Russian Alexander SLAVROV was the sole founder of IronMarch.org; (2) that his real name was Alisher MUKHITDINOV; and (3) that (allegedly) he had had close personal connections to the upper echelon of the Russian political establishment. No evidence is given to back up those assertions. Instead of which, people are merely told (in effect) that the information is ‘in the public domain’ – and they (you) should therefore go find it themselves (yourself). Therefore, the way in which PROPORNOT has striven to identify the ‘ownership’ of that IronMarch.org forum has to be considered as utterly unconvincing. There appears to have been a deliberate, obfuscating agenda.^{68 69}

What has to be important, therefore, is identifying and confirming who had actually originated IronMarch.org – and who was effectively in charge of, and was running, that very notorious operation.

There is therefore a major problem here. This relates to an independent examination of the way in which the neo-Nazi National Action group and the IronMarch.org forum were created, and for which purpose they were actually intended to serve. It is of particular interest to see the efforts, by UK State agencies and by mainstream media, to completely avoid the linking of the founding of the UK-based neo-Nazi group National Action, to the founding of IronMarch.org forum, some three years previously. Which rather begs the question – why would such enquiries be considered as either ‘off-limits’ or of ‘no public interest’?

The authenticity of the IronMarch.org forum and National Action organizations – in regard to their true original purpose – is never questioned by mainstream corporate media, or by the State-endorsed organizations investigating into, and reporting upon, such emerging and bizarre entities. Indeed, mainstream media have unquestionably accepted Benjamin RAYMOND’s own ‘performativity’ narrative. They want us, and expect us, to accept RAYMOND (the National Action founder) as a ‘trusted source’!

In fact, an examination of the evidence points very firmly toward IronMarch.org having been RAYMOND’s very own personal project. This is backed up by the time-lines – from the creation and registration of (his) integralistparty.zzi.org and the IronMarch.org forum, together with the particular contents of both websites.

⁶⁸ PROPORNOT has extraordinary similarities to UK-based BELLINGCAT. The PROPORNOT website was first registered on the 21st August 2016 – just three months before the US Presidential Election (Donald TRUMP versus Hilary CLINTON).

⁶⁹ There is the important matter of the US-based, highly cited, secretive, organization PROPORNOT has reportedly been connected to major US State and State-affiliated and Washington-based organizations, including The US State Department, The Atlantic Council (through the subsidiary, the Washington-based Digital Forensic Research Laboratory / DFRLab, and The Interpreter Magazine). It has been widely claimed that the person actually running the PROPORNOT organization is the mainstream (‘neo-conservative’, progressive globalist) political pundit Michael WEISS. On the evidence seen, this does indeed seem highly credible. Michael WEISS has worked for the Daily Beast, and The Interpreter Magazine. At the beginning of 2016 his name appears at the top of an article, in The Interpreter, saying “We are proud to announce that starting January 1st, 2016, The Interpreter will be a special project of Radio Free Europe / Radio Liberty”. Notably, RFE/RL are progenies of the CIA.

It is therefore such research – as that described within this report – that can lead down some rather strange and perplexing paths. And there is often (to be found) an important historical context.

On the 2nd July 2010 Benjamin RAYMOND joined an online International Third Positionist Federation forum (ITPF).⁷⁰ Notably a person named Alexander SLAVROS also became a member of that forum, some 6 weeks later (on the 15th August 2010). They both subsequently became forum administrators.

Benjamin RAYMOND's IPGBNI website, on its inaugural day of the 15th July 2011, included a direct reference (in domain name and in symbolism/artwork) to a putative IronMarch.org forum website. This was despite that particular website (IronMarch.org) not being registered until 11 weeks later (on the 1st October 2011) – with its first presence on the Internet not recorded until two days later (on the 3rd October 2011).

The online posts by Alexander SLAVROS, from October 2011 and onwards, are in perfect colloquial English – firmly pointing to the source being a natural, native English speaker (i.e. not a Russian).⁷¹

Obviously, the iconic image for IronMarch.org – embedded within the home page of RAYMOND's IPGBNI website – doesn't hyper-link to the IronMarch.org forum website (which, of course, didn't exist at that time). Instead of which, it linked to another 'manifesto' webpage on that same IPGBNI website.⁷² However, it is noted that particular 'manifesto' page was never uploaded to the IPGBNI website. It therefore seems it was originally intended to be a temporary 'placeholder' for the forthcoming IronMarch.org 'manifesto' (i.e. rules for new members), then under construction by Benjamin RAYMOND. Benjamin RAYMOND would later boast that it was he, himself, who had written the IronMarch.org 'manifesto'.⁷³

Toward the end of 2011 RAYMOND's IronMarch.org forum became a replacement for SLAVROS's ITPF forum. However, things did not go well: *"I was at first glad to see the ITPF had a successor. But soon I realized these guys were a different breed from the old forum. I was a respected member of the old site, but a "sperry" here. We used to have a good deal of quality member. I don't think many of them left."*⁷⁴

One of the earliest contributors to the IronMarch.org forum (within just a few weeks of its launch, in October 2011) was a 16-year-old schoolboy named Alex DAVIES. It was undoubtedly DAVIES's

⁷⁰ internationalthirdpositionistfederation.s4.bizhat.com

⁷¹ For example: "So my old PC finally broke down a week ago. ergo my absence. Working from a laptop for the time being but don't expect much activity from me till I get a new PC up and running. Can't say how soon that'll be though. See yah when I see yah." Source: alexander-slavros.deviantart.com, on the 30th October 2011. Not credible for a young native Russian with a reportedly with (especially) a lazy attitude to study.

⁷² In regard to other investigations, I had already queried this type of problem, on a different research topic, with the technical help staff at archive.org (Google). They informed me that "The archive you have identified [...] appears to embed content from a separate URL: [...] When This occurs, The Wayback Machine looks for the closest record in time that is available in the archive for the embedded URL and attempts to serve that content on the referring page. The same can occur with other embedded content like images and frames displayed on a web page – these can be from a different time than the archive date for the web page's URL." Source: info-reply@archive.org - 21st October 2016. This, therefore, is further confirmation that the only link to the 'IronMarch.org' image link was to the www.integralistparty.zzz.org/manifesto.html page.

⁷³ "Oh yeah I wrote that charter. I don't think I ever got around to taking a look at the whole 'Nazi' problem on IM people complaining about. I am sure everything turned out fine though." Benjamin Raymond @braymo89 Twitter.com

⁷⁴ From Iron March Exposed, downloaded 8th August 2020

involvement in IronMarch.org that resulted in his being referred to the UK State-run anti-radicalization PREVENT programme, sometime toward the end of that same year.⁷⁵

The UK police and security agencies would have been monitoring the IronMarch.org forum from its very inception. Those State agencies will have known the real identities of those persons joining, and posting comment to, that site – and they will also have known the identity of the particular individual who had set up that particular Internet forum (i.e. Benjamin RAYMOND). Which rather begs the question (given the site's extreme content) – why didn't the UK State ever act to have IronMarch.org closed down?⁷⁶

In February 2013 yet another online post by Alexander SLAVROS appeared – and yet again in perfect colloquial English (and therefore, presumably, the product of a native English speaker).⁷⁷

Sometime between the 8th July and the 1st September 2013 the DeviantArt.com account of Alexander SLAVROS was hacked and up-loaded with some very nasty neo-Nazi content (content that will have been a serious crime in Russia, and which normally leads to culprits being arrested, charged and imprisoned). Coincidentally, this occurred just a few weeks prior to the website of National Action (in the UK) being founded, first registered, and launched, by Benjamin RAYMOND and the UK State's PREVENT-mentored Alex DAVIES – and which, undoubtedly, enabled close connections developing between National Action members and the IronMarch.org forum members from (at least) that time.^{78 79}

In October 2015 a rather ludicrous piece of literature – purportedly co-authored by Alexander SLAVROS and a Canadian neo-Nazi – was published.⁸⁰ Written in very poor, ungrammatical English, it was a fictional story used to promote neo-fascism, racism and (most especially) anti-Semitism. The English used was completely different to the perfect colloquial English, routinely used by Alexander SLAVROS, some 3 years earlier, in his online posts (for example on his Deviantart.com account – see earlier).

⁷⁵ 'Revealed: How self-styled "intellectual" behind supremacist National Action mob was on government "at risk of Radicalisation" watch list at age of 16', by Charlie Bayliss, The Mail online, 26th July 2018.

⁷⁶ It is (of course) a rhetorical question.

⁷⁷ "Some news as to what I've been up to: - Over at IronMarch.org we're working hard to create a new and improved Fascist Archive, that will be free, with a membership system that grants some useful perks to those who register, everything will be downloadable, but most importantly it will have a streamline uploading process. making updates easy to do on a regular basis, meaning it will be a vast improvement over the current Fascist Archive that has grown rather stale; - Work is underway to create the official website for the Russian Iron Youth Movement (entirely) in Russian, there will be no English translation); - We're also looking into creating an official Iron March internet Radio to broadcast fascist music and podcasts in all languages 24/7. If you have any knowledge on the subject please post the information or links to sources on said information; - lastly my tumblr H8RED-GENERATOR is back online, and I have synced my VK [link], FB[link], Twitter [link] and Tumblr [link], thus creating a small network of information – whenever I post something on my wall on VK or update my tumblr, it will also appear on my FB and twitter, so double the output for half the work." Source: alexander-slavros.deviantart.com, on the 20th February 2013.

⁷⁸ Whilst being active as an IronMarch.org member, Alex DAVIES had also remained in contact with the UK State's anti-extremism officers and with the UK PREVENT programme – for a further period of 2 years.

⁷⁹ The National Action website was registered on the 21st September 2013.

⁸⁰ 'The Squire's Trial', Alexander Slavros and Charles Chapel, 25th October 2015.

On the 12th March 2018 VICE (UK) published two articles, both by James POULTER – one being an exposition on the neo-Nazi IronMarch.org forum and its links to terrorism, and the other connecting the Generation Identity movement to the promulgation of (white) racism.⁸¹

Later events (i.e. from late 2019 onwards) have been especially revealing. This includes the extraordinary ‘leaking’ of the IronMarch.org data files in November 2019, and the attempt to both disconnect Benjamin RAYMOND from the creation of that forum, and instead to connect it to Russia and to the Russian State – as expounded by organizations such as PROPORNOT and BELLINGCAT. In December 2019 the organization Bellingcat opined that the “recruiting through the US military ... It [IronMarch.org] went on to develop a small but lethal ‘accelerationist’ terror group called Atomwaffen Division ... Responsible for murders, an assassination attempt, and failed bomb plots.”⁸² Given the context (of other contributions from Bellingcat, and from others) this was clearly intended to connect such actions to ‘The Russians’.

On the 30th January 2020 the BBC published a Russian-language article titled ‘Half Russian: The Story of Muscovite Alisher MUKHITDINOV and His Global Fascist Network’.⁸³ The BBC claim that Alexander SLAVROS was a person named Alisher MUKHITDINOV and that he had created, and had been running, the Iron March forum. That claim was based on no presented evidence, whatsoever.⁸⁴ However, the response of Benjamin RAYMOND was that of pure glee – remarking “As long as everyone had fun, that’s what counts.”⁸⁵ And, of course, he said nothing to correct the BBC’s main thesis concerning the creator

Clearly Benjamin RAYMOND believed he was ‘untouchable’. So, what special privileges did he believe he had, such that he could act in that way with such impunity? He tried to use his IronMarch.org forum as a means for establishing a substantial neo-Nazi presence within Russia. Obviously, the UK Government would have had access to his IronMarch.org forum (not least, by the simple expediency of inserting its own operatives as forum members). It would have known.

END (document/photo scan pages appended to this report):

⁸¹ ‘Meet the Snowflakes Who Are the New Face of Race Hate’, James POULTER, VICE (UK), 08:00am, 12th March 2018; and ‘The Obscure Neo-Nazi Forum Linked to a Wave of Terror’, James POULTER, VICE (UK), 08:45am, 12th March 2018

⁸² ‘Transnational White Terror: Exposing Atomwaffen and the Iron March Network’, Bellingcat, 19th December 2019. Source (Google archive): www.com/news/2019/12/transnational-white-terror-exposing-atomwaffen-and-the-iron-march-network/.

⁸³ ‘Half Russian: The Story of Muscovite Alisher Mukhitdinov and His Global Fascist Network’, by Andrey Soshnikov, BBC, 30th January 2020.

⁸⁴ The BBC employed one of its very many propaganda techniques – to make an unfounded claim, and then to convince the recipients of that claim of its veracity by expending an extraordinary amount of time and expense by producing extensive ‘research material, to fabricate the foundations for that claim. In effect, the type of background work that a fiction writer will do, so as to give the writer’s story a felling of authenticity.

⁸⁵ Benjamin Raymond @braymo89 Twitter 20th January 2020

[Benjamin RAYMOND's Creation of the 'Iron March' Forum

WhoIsRequest
Domain Research Tools

WhoisDomain History

Domain history checker

Do you want to know if certain domain name was registered before?
We track nameserver changes since 2002 for all COM, NET, ORG, INFO, BIZ and US domains.

Type Domain Name below

ironmarch.orgGet History

ironmarch.org - 10 changes and 1 drops recorded over 8 years

Requests left: 4

2011

1 Oct, 2011

Domain created*, nameservers added

Nameservers

ns49.domaincontrol.com
ns50.domaincontrol.com

Changes

ns49.domaincontrol.com
ns50.domaincontrol.com

2013

20 Jul, 2013

Nameservers

ns1.asmallorange.com
ns2.asmallorange.com

Changes

ns1.asmallorange.com
ns2.asmallorange.com
ns49.domaincontrol.com
ns50.domaincontrol.com

Wayback Machine

12 captures

10 Jul 2011 - 17 Jul 2011

15 JUL 2011

15 SEP 2012

http://integralistparty.zzi.org/

THE INTEGRALIST PARTY OF GREAT BRITAIN AND NORTHERN IRELAND

FAITH AND PLAN TODAY - ACTION IN BRITAIN TOMORROW! DEMAND THE PEOPLE'S STATE!

IRON MARCH.ORG

OUR POLICY
NEWS
ATTACK
ACTIVISM
ABOUT US
OTHER LINKS

© 2011 The Integralist Party of Great Britain and Northern Ireland

16:27 Thu 4 Aug

web.archive.org

Internet Archive

Wayback Machine

http://integralistparty.zzi.org/manifesto.html

LatestShow All

Hrm.

The Wayback Machine has not archived that URL.

This page is not available on the web because page does not exist

Click here to search for all archived pages under http://integralistparty.zzi.org/.

The Wayback Machine is an initiative of the Internet Archive, a 501(c)(3) non-profit, San Francisco, CA-based organization. We are not affiliated with, nor do we endorse, any of the content on this page. Please contact us if you have any questions or concerns.

Your use of the Wayback Machine is subject to the Internet Archive's Terms of Use.

The Very Convenient IronMarch.org Membership List Leak

PropOrNot ID Service  @propornot · 6 Nov 2019

The fascist terrorist website in question, Iron March, was founded by a "Russian nationalist" son of a "Russian diplomat" Alisher Mukhitdinov, aka "Alexander Slavros".

It is implausible that "Slavros"/"Mukhitdinov" operates without Russian state support.

 Iron March backup SQL dump

UsagePublic Domain Mark 1.0

TopicsIron March, Fascist Forge, Atomwaffen, neo-Nazi

SQL database dump of neo-Nazi forum Iron March, scripts to convert database tables into CSV files, and the CSV files themselves in the `csv/` directory. More information about the data and how it was obtained can be found in the README.

Identifieriron_march_201911

ScannerInternet Archive HTML5 Uploader 1.6.4

Massive White Supremacist Message Board Leak: How to Access and...

Update: The Internet Archive has removed the SQL leak; however, the information is freely available via a torrent file (download here) or a ...

bellingscat.com

5

110

141

Show this thread

PropOrNot ID Service  @propornot

Identifying propaganda as a service, since 2016! We investigate & help counter Russian efforts to influence the US using propaganda, fake news, & social media.

📍 United States propornot.com 📅 Joined August 2016

3,085 Following 11.2K Followers

Follow

Benjamin RAYMOND and the 'Iron March' Membership Leaks

Oh yeah I wrote that charter! I don't think I ever got round to taking a look at the whole 'Nazi' problem on IM peo...
<https://t.co/JfpEXztQEw>
6:33 PM - 7 Nov 2019

Benjamin Raymond
@braymo89

@DelRacismo I was wrong to say this thing. Never again a monarchy, all princes too should go kiss a guillotine.
<https://t.co/X5XtiNym5l>
5:36 PM - 7 Nov 2019

Benjamin Raymond
@braymo89

Sifting through ironmarch archives is like sifting through the dumpster at a day care - literally. None of you assh...
<https://t.co/R95kxxm6tg>
2:14 AM - 7 Nov 2019

Benjamin Raymond
@braymo89

Somebody needs to inform Robert Mueller immediatly. #ironmarch was a FSB gay op to interfere in the election. Trum...
<https://t.co/9h4x1Os2BV>
2:03 AM - 7 Nov 2019

Benjamin Raymond
@braymo89

My problem child - the gift that keeps on giving. Oh boy, nostalgia time!
<https://t.co/bi15mqn2qm>
<https://t.co/S4gB2xHhnO>
1:26 AM - 7 Nov 2019

11/6 2019

Benjamin Raymond
@braymo89

Exclusive sickening insight into the groupchat of a neo Nazi death cult. <https://t.co/eJo1ksMXqR>
12:51 PM - 6 Nov 2019

Old Tweets: braymo89 Pg 14

PropOrNot ID Service on Twitter: "The fascist terrori..."

Thread

PropOrNot ID Service @propornot · 6 Nov 2019

The fascist terrorist website in question, Iron March, was founded by a "Russian nationalist" son of a "Russian diplomat" Alisher Mukhitdinov, aka "Alexander Slavros".

It is implausible that "Slavros"/"Mukhitdinov" operates without Russian state support.

Iron March backup SQL dump

Usage Topics Public Domain Mark 1.0 Iron March, Fascist Forge, Atomwaffen, neo-Nazi

SQL database dump of neo-Nazi forum Iron March, scripts to convert database tables into CSV files, and the CSV files themselves in the 'csv' directory. More information about the data and how it was obtained can be found in the README.

Identifier Scanner Iron_march_201911 Internet Archive HTML5 Uploader 1.6.4

Massive White Supremacist Message Board Leak: How to Access and...
Update: The Internet Archive has removed the SQL leak; however, the information is freely available via a torrent file (download here) or a ...
@bellingcat.com

5 109 138

PropOrNot ID Service @propornot · 6 Nov 2019

"Slavros",org was registered by a man named Alisher Mukhitdinov, according to publicly available records of that website's registration. Mukhitdinov launched the website from the Moscow neighborhood of Tverskaya, the website registry records show."

Benjamin Noyles

My blogs
BRITAIN AWAKE
Integralist News

Blogs I follow
A Journey, Fascism.
Excentric
Integralist News
New Right Australia/New Zealand
Stargazer
State &amp; Unity
The Australian Nationalist

View Full Size

Contact me
Email
My Web Page

On Blogger since December 2008

Bellingcat @bellingcat

Early finding from the Iron March (neo-Nazi/white supremacist message board) leak. Our guide on navigating and analyzing the leaks:
bellingcat.com/resources/how-...

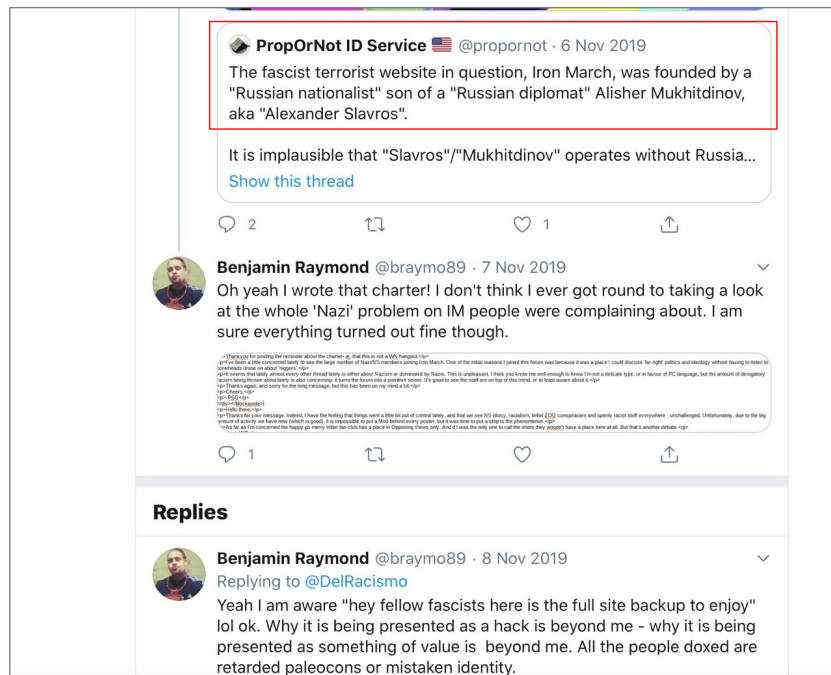

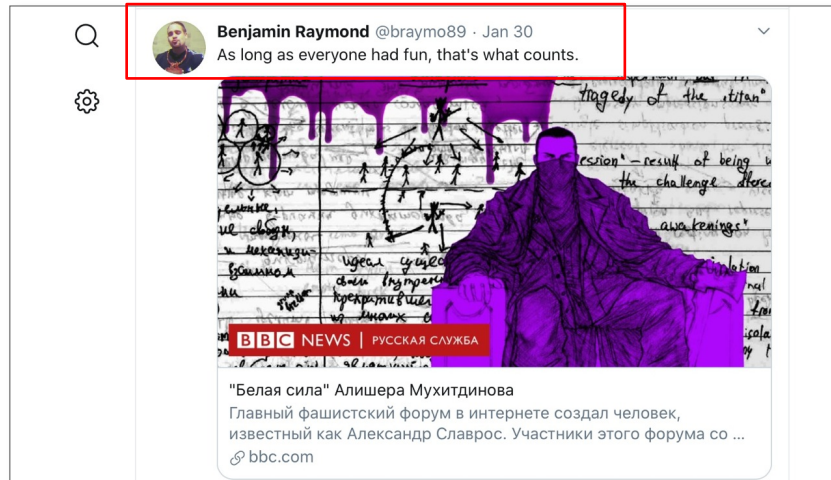

This Tweet is unavailable.

11:19 pm · 6 Nov 2019 · TweetDeck

This is the first PROPORNOT report on the IronMarch.org membership 'leak', on the 6th November 2019 – and Benjamin RAYMOND's response to that report. Notably, he draws his followers' attention to the PROPORNOT source.

© Anthony Shell Aug 2024 / July 2026 A FAKED HARD-RIGHT UK TERRORISM MICRO-GROUP [1]?

The BBC, PROPORNOT, RAYMOND neo-Naziism Russia/Putin narrative.

Benjamin RAYMOND brags about being the author of the IronMarch.org 'manifesto'.

END